Education and Training

2021 - 2024

PhD in Analytic Philosophy • Universitat de Barcelona • CCiL Programme

I am currently working on topics in philosophy of logic and epistemology. In my research project I deal with the normativity of logic in a psychologist framework, evaluating which kind of contribute cognitive sciences can offer to a scientifically informed philosophy of logic. I work under the supervision of professors José Díez and Genoveva Martí.

July 2021

Summary of the main courses taken:

Epistemology (Prof. José Díez)

Logic and Rationality (Prof. Andrea Iacona and Prof. Vincenzo Crupi)

Logic and Language (Prof. Andrea Iacona)

Metaphysics for mind and language (Prof. Graham Priest)

Philosophy of mind (Prof. Alberto Voltolini)

July 2020

Erasmus Period • Kaunas University of Technology

During my Master's Degree studies I spent one year abroad in Kaunas, Lithuania, where I was especially focused on improving my English language level and in obtaining technical tools connected with the research field I had in mind for a PhD. Since I had the possibility to attend also courses from departments other than Philosophy, I learned some basic computer science and mathematical notions for the contemporary debate on rationality. It has been a crucial year for consolidating my multidisciplinary approach to this debate, but also and above all for my language training.

Summary of the main courses taken:

Introduction to Artificial Intelligence

Theory of probability and statistics

Methodology of research work

Academic Writing (English C1)

French Language (B2)
