

JAMES JAKÓB LISZKA, Ph.D.

James Jakób Liszka is currently Senior Scholar at the Institute for Ethics in Public Life and Professor of Philosophy Emeritus at the State University of New York, Plattsburgh. He was also Director of the Center for Interdisciplinary and Area Studies. He is Professor Emeritus at the University of Alaska Anchorage. He was Visiting Professor at Beijing Language and Culture University, and the China Youth University for Political Sciences. He was a Humanities Fellow at the University of Toronto, Scarborough College.

Prof. Liszka served as an administrator for several years in various capacities, most recently as Provost at SUNY Plattsburgh. He was Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Director of Graduate Studies, and Interim Vice-Provost for Sponsored Research at the University of Alaska Anchorage.

His scholarship includes Pragmatist Ethics: A Problem-Based Approach to the Study of Ethics (SUNY Press, 2021) and Charles Peirce on Ethics, Esthetics and the Normative Sciences (Routledge, 2021). Prof. Liszka also published a textbook on ethics, Moral Competence (Prentice-Hall, 2002), now in its second edition. He is the author of A General Introduction to the Semeiotic of Charles S. Peirce (Indiana University Press, 1996), now considered a classic in the field. The book has been translated into Chinese (Sichuan University Press, 2014) and Korean (Hankuk University Press, 2013), both in a second edition. He also published The Semiotic Theory of Myth: A Study of the Symbol (Indiana University Press, 1989), a work on narrative theory. He has published several articles and given international and national talks on a variety of topics, including pragmatism, semiotics, ethics, environmental, business and professional ethics, linguistics, rhetoric, pedagogy, higher education, and complex systems. He received the Chancellor's Award for Outstanding Scholarship at the University of Alaska Anchorage.

In 1980, he co-founded The Alaska Quarterly Review with Ron Spatz, which has gained a national reputation as a literary journal. He served as Associate Editor for the Graduate Faculty Philosophy Journal and sits on several editorial boards.

Prof. Liszka received several grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities; grants from the Chinese Ministry of Education (Hanban) to establish a Confucius Institute at the University of Alaska Anchorage. He also received grants from the Teagle Foundation, the State University of New York, and the National Science Foundation, for the development of a new, problem-based pedagogy, the Common Problem Project.

The Common Problem Project is a partnership with four other SUNY campuses. In this pedagogy, faculty across disciplines work with a community partner on a shared problem. Teams of students from different disciplines work together to analyze the problem and present possible solutions. Prof. Liszka has been a strong advocate of active, experiential and service learning. At the University of Alaska Anchorage, he helped to establish the Center for Community Engagement and Learning, and The Center for Community Engagement at SUNY Plattsburgh. For his innovation in teaching, Dr. Liszka received an Excellence in Teaching Award from the University of Alaska Anchorage.

Actively engaged in the professions and communities he serves, Prof. Liszka has worked as an ethics consultant, and served on several boards, including the Ethics Board of the Anchorage Pioneer Home. The Alaska Conservation Foundation, and chaired the Board of the Alaska Humanities Forum, and the Board of the Mt. Lake PBS station in Plattsburgh, New York. In Anchorage, he served on the Municipal Ethics Board and was a principal in the re-write of the ethics code. He received the Anchorage Mayor's Award for Public Service. Dr. Liszka was past President of the Charles S. Peirce Society.

A lifelong advocate for the environment, he worked on several issues in Alaska with the Alaska Conservation Foundation. He offered the first NEH Summer Institute on environmental ethics in 2001. He has published scholarly work on the subject, including a piece on the Exxon Valdez oil spill.

Dr. Liszka received his Ph.D. from the New School for Social Research, where he received the Max Lerner and the Alfred Schütz Awards.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Ethics, Environmental Ethics, Business Ethics, Professional Ethics, Aesthetics, Logic, History of Philosophy, American Philosophy

CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT:

As a faculty member, I developed a Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy program at UAA, along with a Certificate program in Applied Ethics. Additionally, I developed a number of courses in the program, including environmental ethics, professional ethics, and philosophy of art. I developed a course in ethics for the Honors program, for the Nursing program, and a course in complex systems. I was an early adopter of distance learning, starting with television, moving to telecom, hybrid courses, and fully on-line web courses through Blackboard. I also produced instructional CDs for many of these courses.

UNIVERSITY COMMITTEE EXPERIENCE:

As a faculty member, I have served as a member or a chair of a wide variety of governance committees, including curriculum, assessment, general education, planning, budget and faculty evaluation. I've participated or chaired in a number of search committees, including chairing the search for the Chancellor at UAA. I've been a member of several college advisory boards, including the Center for Community Engagement and Learning at UAA, the UAA Honors Program, and the Complex System Group. I co-chaired UAA's United Way Campaign, and co-directed its International Film Series for many years.

NEWS MEDIA EXPERIENCE

I have been featured in nearly 125 newspaper articles or television news reports during my professional career, and I have a great deal of experience in working with the news media.
