

Dr. M. Rodinal Khair Khasri

Assistant Professor at Faculty of Philosophy
Gadjah Mada University, Indonesia

About Me

Dr. M. Rodinal Khair Khasri is a lecturer in the Department of Eastern Philosophy, Faculty of Philosophy, Universitas Gadjah Mada (UGM). He is committed to bridging academic communities, content creators, and broader public communities as part of his idealism to disseminate philosophical knowledge to wider audiences.

He actively serves in several administrative and professional roles, including managing Cooperation, Alumni, and the International Affairs Office of the Faculty of Philosophy UGM, serving as Head of the Department of Eastern Philosophy, Internal Quality Auditor at the UGM Quality Assurance Office, and reviewer for the UGM Research Ethics Committee. He served as one of the module developers for the Responsible Leadership Training of Trainers (Strengthening Ethical Leadership in Indonesia), organized by Yayasan Dharma Etika Madani (YADEMA) Indonesia, Globethics.

His current research focuses on hermeneutics, religious studies (including interfaith dialogue, indigenous religions, and religious pluralism), and artificial intelligence. Within the scope of AI, he is currently conducting research on interpersonal trust in the use of artificial intelligence (GenAI) in education. In relation to his focus on religious pluralism, he previously served as the Coordinator of Enumerators for the Sleman Regency in a research project conducted by the National Counterterrorism Agency (BNPT) of the Republic of Indonesia. He teaches courses including Philosophy of Religion, Philosophy of Language, Aesthetics, Pancasila Education, Civic Education, and Hermeneutics.

He has participated as a researcher in various research collaborations, including projects with PT Kideco Jaya Agung Mining Corps, BAKTI Kominfo in Papua, Sorec FISIPOL UGM-BRI, and UNESCO on AI ethics in education. He also serves as an Ethics Consultant at Yayasan Dharma Etika Madani (Yadema) under Globethics, Geneva, and as an expert team member at the Directorate of Education and Training, Badan Pembinaan Ideologi Pancasila (BPIP), Republic of Indonesia.
