

Wolfgang Neuhaus

Independent Researcher, Berlin, Germany

Email: wolfgang.neuhaus@klanglabor.berlin

Website: <https://spuren.neuhaus.fm/>

Research Focus

Process-oriented ontology of play; emergence and self-organization; philosophy of nature; systems theory; embodied cognition.

My work develops a conceptual framework in which structure, dynamics, and transformation are understood as configurations of relational processes (“play”).

Current Position

Independent Researcher, Klanglabor Berlin (since 2024)

Teacher of Music and Mathematics

Max-von-Laue-Schule, Berlin (since 2014)

Education

First State Examination (Lehramt Musik)

Studies in Mathematics, English, Work Studies, and Music

Freie Universität Berlin / Pädagogische Hochschule Berlin / Hochschule der Künste Berlin

Second State Examination (Teacher Training), Berlin

Professional Experience (selected)

E-Learning Consultant and Research Associate

Freie Universität Berlin (Didactics of Physics), 2005–2014

Founder, Yeelab – Educational Environments

E-learning services in adult education, 2000–2005

Research Associate

Institute for Information Technology and Pedagogy (IMBSE), Moers, 1996–1999

Media Educator

Senate Administration for Education, Youth and Sport, Berlin, 1988–1996

Selected Writings

Essays on ontology, emergence, and process philosophy

Available at: <https://spuren.neuhaus.fm/>

Additional Activities

Artistic and musical work within the project “Klanglabor Berlin”

Exploring the intersection of aesthetic practice and philosophical inquiry